IN MEMORIAM

DR. WARNER M. KARSHNER

When the doors of life closed on Dr. Warner M. Karshner Wednesday, December 19, 1951, the Puyallup schools lost a friend and supporter of long standing.

Perhaps most students in the high school were best acquainted with Dr. Karshner's name through the museum which he and his wife established in memory of their son Paul who died when he was a senior here. Very few schools have the unique privilege of having a museum in their own building. Another memorial to Paul Karshner consisted of the scholarships offered by the Karshners to two students each year who were to attend the University of Washington. More than 30 students from Puyallup High School have benefitted from the scholarships.

Dr. Karshner also served the schools here as a teacher for one year and as president of the school board for 12 years. The new elementary school in the northwest section of town is to be named after him. He was very active in community affairs, and in the notice of his death in the local paper he was called "Puyallup's most honored citizen."

No longer will the doors of the buildings in Puyallup swing open to the person of Dr. Karshner, but his spirit will live on in the homes of the thousands of friends who have been influenced by his life. In the words of Edwin Markham, it can truly be said that his death "leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

Students were also saddened last summer by the death of Glenda Taft, who would have been a junior at Puyallup this year, and of Bruce Calvert, who had enrolled as a freshman.

TEACHERS OPEN THE DOORS TO KNOWLEDGE

ADMINISTRATORS COPE WITH

Playing a significant role in the effort to secure greater equalization of educational opportunity and higher standards for the public schools was Paul B. Hanawalt, superintendent. Mr. Hanawalt is a well-known figure in Puyallup education, having started out as a high school mathematics teacher and then advancing to the positions of Junior High Principal, Senior High Principal, and his present position as head of the Puyallup schools. He is also a valuable citizen of the community and a leader in state education work.

Below: Marion Catron, Business Manager

Handling the financial problems of the Puyallup school system was the work of Marion Catron, Business Manager. Because of the ever-increasing enrollment problem which was causing an extra-heavy burden to be placed on the Superintendent, the position of Business Manager was created to alleviate the strain. Mr. Catron also has charge of school maintenance.

The final authority on school problems rested with the school board. Under the leadership of Frank Manning, many financial and academic questions were solved by the group who spent many hours serving the school and community.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Dr. Kenneth H. Sturdevant, Cecil Lepley, Frank Manning (President), Clyde O. Gregory, Melvin B. Dennis.

PROBLEMS OF THE SCHOOLS

Chief "doorman" in our institution of learning was Principal Harry Hansen. It was Mr. Hansen's job to see that the doors of opportunity and learning were always kept open to the students. Many years of service to the school have given him the experience which has made him an efficient, cooperative, and well-liked leader among both faculty and students.

Below: Don Hartung, Vice Principal

Don Hartung, Vice Principal, worked in close conjunction with Mr. Hansen in running the school. Planning assemblies was an important aspect of Mr. Hartung's responsibilities, and he was the adviser for the Viking Knights.

Keeping school records clear was a full time job for the secretaries. The new superintendent's office was the eight-thirty-to-five home of Bonnie McMahon and Joan Moore, who worked under the leadership of Virginia Haynes. Working in the high school office were Ruth Ocheltree and Phyllis Hines, while Anna Mae Matta was situated in the guidance office.

TEACHERS REVEAL

Left: Good housekeeping and dressmaking were two important subjects administered under Helen Alexander, Doris Hansen, and Irene Potucek of the home economics department. A class in family living helped keep Miss Alexander busy, in addition to her jobs as adviser of F.H.A., Honor Society, and Junior Red Cross. Miss Hansen served as a Tri Hi-Y adviser.

Right: The guidance department is under the directorship of Mark Whitman, with Frieda Scheitlin assisting. Miss Scheitlin also teaches Latin and is a freshman class and Latineers adviser. Mr. Whitman is an adviser of the Board of Control and Smoking committee.

Left: Serving as Curriculum Director of the Puyallup Schools is Fred Simons, who also directs the adult education program and has charge of the book room.

Below: Senior high social sciences are taught by Alvin Jacobs, world history; J. Alden Vanderpool, Washington history, U. S. history and civics; Nydia Case, English, U. S. history and civics; Paul Simons, U. S. history and civics, world problems; Palma Larson, world history; and James Hatton, English and world history. Mr. Jacobs also serves as junior high football and track coach. Mrs. Case and Mr. Simons are junior class advisers, while Mr. Hatton is in charge of the properties committee. Miss Larson is adviser of the annual, and Mr. Vanderpool is a member of the Puyallup Education Association Board of Directors.

NEW HORIZONS

Right: In charge of the junior high library is Jean Watson, who was also a freshman class and Tri Hi-Y training group adviser. Florence Pfefferle, besides being senior high librarian, found time to be a sophomore class and Tri-Hi-Y adviser. Bessie M. Matthews is curator of the Karshner museum.

Left: Health is the main concern of Adah Sands, Health Coordinator, and Ruth Robertson, school nurse. Physical examinations, X-rays, and immunization clinics were included in their many activities designed to protect the health of students. Miss Sands was also an assistant adviser for the Tri Hi-Y training group.

Right: Robert O. Logan is Supervisor of Lunchrooms for all the schools in Puyallup, so he is in charge of the high school cafeteria and candy counters.

Below: A typical scene in the Paul Karshner memorial museum was snapped by the photographer when Miss Larson's fourth period world history class visited the room in December. As a special assignment, they were looking for objects that would relate to the history they had been studying.

BEHIND THE DOORS

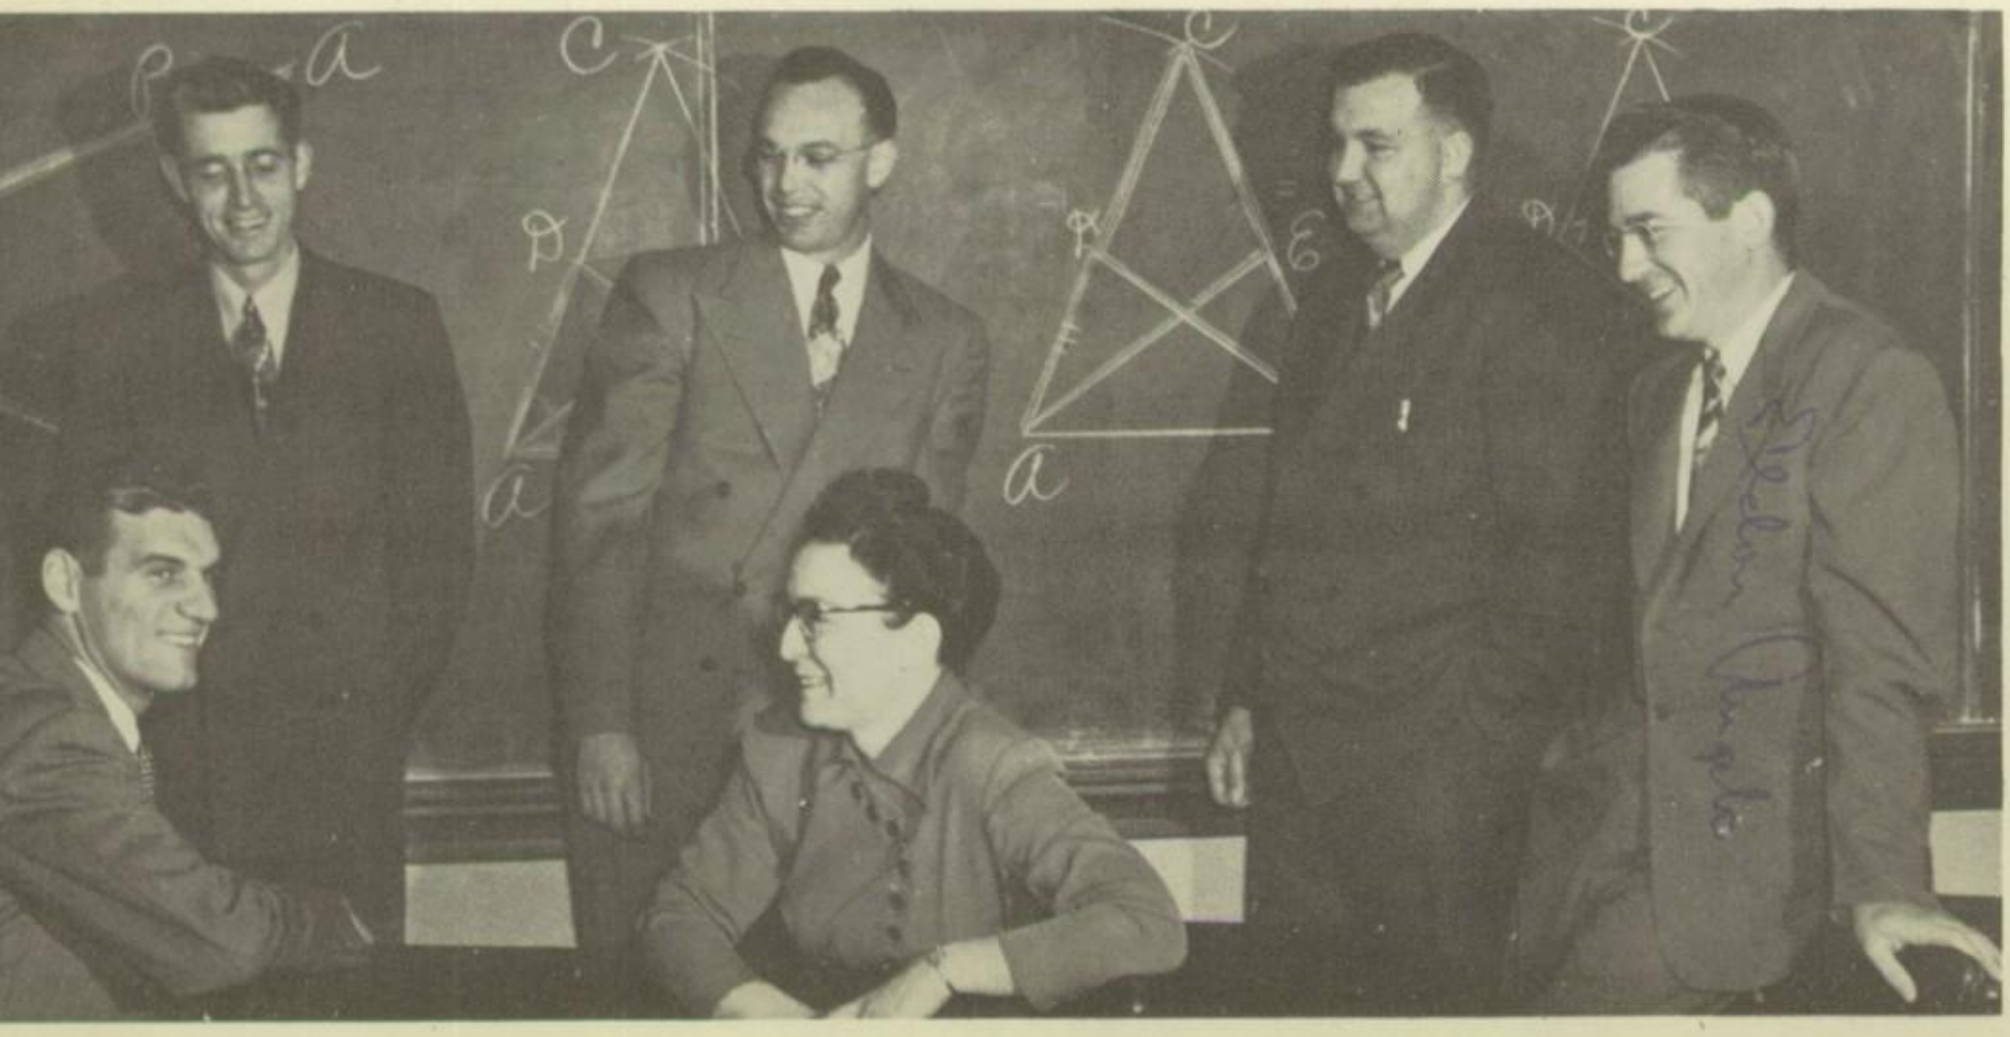
Left, middle: Proving to be a helping hand with the football team and guiding the baseball team did not interrupt Carl Wasmund's health classes. Mr. Wasmund was also a freshman class adviser. Basketball and assistant football mentor, Dean Nicholson taught mathematics in junior high. James Turman found time to fulfill the positions of junior high basketball coach, assistant football coach, trainer for football, and track coach, while instructing social science and health. He also was a Hi-Y adviser.

Below: Algebra equations and theorems were not the only factors that kept the mathematics instructors busy. In addition to teaching an algebra class, William Whitesel had office duty, guided the B squad teams in basketball and football and was a junior class adviser. Charles Bell was kept busy with basic mathematics, seventh grade mathematics, algebra, and general business, and was a freshman class adviser. Teaching college mathematics and algebra and serving as P.E.A. vice president were the duties of Donald Rice, while Mariam Cleveland taught geometery and algebra. Glen Crum combined algebra, radio, and mathematics in his teaching responsibilities, while Eldon Angelo also instructed classes in mathematics and algebra and acted as the supervisor of Viking Patrol.



OF THE CLASSROOM

Right: Robert Nicholson found time to be a junior class adviser while teaching classes in industrial arts. Coaching the football team, fulfilling the position of Athletic Director, and serving on the Board of Control did not keep Carl Sparks from teaching industrial arts classes. Also instructing industrial arts was Mark Hipkins, who taught stagecraft classes and supervised the stage crew.

Right, middle: Conducting the band and orchestra and acting as the Supervisor of Instrumental Music were the activities of Edward Krenz. Musical productions, vocal groups, music theory, and being a senior class adviser kept Louis Owens busy. Breese Bell was the instructor of junior high music.

Below: Hilda Skreen, Coordinator of Distributive Education, senior class adviser, head of the Senior High English Department, and adviser of the D.E. club, led classes in English and distributive education. Leonard Docherty instructed English and was a sophomore class, Ski club, and properties committee adviser. Spanish and English classes kept Barbara Radcliffe busy, as did her advisership of Viking Ladies, Spanish club, and the senior class. Classes in English and biology and the publicity committee were the duties of Elizabeth Buss. Gertrude Hansen, in addition to teaching public speaking classes, headed the Make Up and Girls' clubs. Harold Snodgrass acted as assistant adviser to the annual and was a sophomore class adviser in addition to teaching English.

LEADERS IN

Below: Instructors in art were Elizabeth Bunn who also taught junior high social science, and Gladys Sorenson, junior class adviser and art adviser for the annual and paper.

Above: Science instructors and their activities included George Walter, physics and biology, projection crew and public address system; Dan Ranniger, biology and journalism, Quill and Scroll, Viking Vanguard, popcorn machine; and Karl Decker, chemistry and general science, senior class adviser, timekeeper for football and basketball.

Below: Junior high English teachers were Lenore Ericson, language arts; Harold Simonson, English I, freshman class adviser and golf coach; Emeline Rentsch, language arts, Junior High Girls' club adviser; Robert Wolf, English I and reading, publicity and Hi-Y adviser; Margery McCulloch, language arts, chairman of Junior High English Department; and Maude Jacobs, English and reading, eighth grade guidance counselor.

THE CLASSROOM

Right: Versatile individuals were Marie Stohl and Sam Peach, since they each had charge of seventh grade divisions during the entire day and taught all the subjects taken by the groups. Omar Holcomb taught seventh and eighth grade social science and one class in mathematics. He was also a faculty member of the Junior High Board of Control.

Above: Physical education and health were taught by Joan Kern and Doris Sherrill. Mrs. Kern also taught a social science class and directed junior and senior high tumbling teams and dancing. Mrs. Sherrill was a Tri Hi-Y and G. A. A. adviser and directed junior high tennis and the drill team.

Below: Industrial arts students receive some pointers from Mr. Nicholson on the art of fine construction in woodwork.

Above: Deane Healey was in charge of senior high drama and also served on the assembly committee and as an announcer over the public address system. Serving as Speech Consultant for the entire school system was Kurt Bargmeyer, who assisted students to overcome speech difficulties. Two eighth grade drama classes were under the direction of Irene Fearn, who also taught eighth grade reading and English.

Since the teachers in Puyallup believe that much can be accomplished by united effort, they are joined in a group called the Puyallup Education Association. They are also members of the Washington Education Association and the National Education Association.

The first social affair of the year was a salmon bake at Pt. Defiance Park, and this served as a welcome to the new teachers. Following this was the annual Christmas party which was somewhat unusual this year. The first two courses were held in the homes of the faculty members, and then the entire group went to the high school cafeteria for the last two courses. The exchange of gifts and program were held at the Meeker kindergarten.

Monthly business meetings were attended by the members of the organization, and a spring picnic was also scheduled.

WORKERS AROUND SCHOOL

"Let me in line!" "Save me a seat at your table!" These and other remarks are heard during the rush of lunch time when the students gather in the cafeteria to polish off in a few minutes the food that the cooks have taken hours to prepare.

A helping hand when girls feel ill or when articles are lost is given by Mrs. Rosemary Woelfle, matron, who has a variety of duties around the school.

Vital cogs in the operation of the school are the custodians who have the never-ending job of cleaning and repairing the halls and rooms in the high school building.

STUDENTS CROSS THE THRESHOLDS INTO NEW OPPORTUNITIES

SENIOR HIGH

CLASS ADVISERS: Karl Decker, Barbara Radcliffe, Hilda Skreen, Louis Owens.

For the last time the class of '52 has given the yell "We're here, through and through, 1-9-5-2." A visitor to the school, looking through the door of the auditorium, would see the different emotions portrayed on the faces of the members of the Class of '52: sadness, relief, and happiness.

So it is with life — a door is sometimes the beginning, sometimes the ending, always leading to something new.

Charging through the doors of Puyallup high school were the freshmen with their class officers: president, Jim Baydo; vice president, Bea Lindsey; secretary-treasurer, Ruthie Quinn; and yell leader, Harold Hatch. "Pacos Puyallup" rode his way into second place for the freshmen in the stunt assembly, and "Carousel" was the dance of the year.

"Season Serenade," the annual hop, was the highlight of the sophomore year. Representing the class were Jimmy Fly, president; Gary Gale, vice president; Ramona Watkin, secretary; and Pat Kibler, yell leader. A "Lil Abner" theme was used for the stunt.

The class of '52's junior year followed much the course of the preceding year, with the group coming out fourth in the season ticket drive and placing third in the stunt assembly. A highlight of the year was the prom, "Stairway to the Stars," which was held at the Elks Temple.

CLASS OF '52 RANKS IN

In the Junior year leadership for the class was furnished by president, Bill Partridge; vice president, Jimmy Fly; secretary-treasurer, Janet Miller; and yell leader, Kenny Brock.

"We won! We won! We won, by golly, we won!" were unfamiliar words spoken by the class of '52, but an opportunity to use them was given when they won the annual stunt assembly in their senior year. "Casey Puyallup" was acclaimed as one of the best stunts ever presented at Puyallup high school. It was a musical production, presented by musical talent from the class.

Ranking high, the upperclassmen also took second place in the season ticket drive. Members of the class were important in the winning of the Puget Sound Conference football championship, and two senior lettermen were selected for the All-State team.

On February 22 the seniors received another blue ribbon on their ball, "Midnight Magic," which was held at Fruitland Grange. In a hall decorated with Parisian splendor, happy couples danced the night away, and as the dance came to a close, they went through the doors, remembering the last big event before graduation.

And so the doors of high school are closing for the class of 1952, leaving within them the same memories of which other classes have told students so often. Yet, to each class, it seems that the memories are something special.

Stamping season tickets and conducting home room discussions were two of the important duties of the home room representatives to the Board of Control.

On the shoulders of these representatives rested the task of issuing and stamping the season tickets, as well as collecting and handling the season ticket receipts.

The representatives attended the Board of Control meetings and brought back the proceedings of the meetings to the home rooms. They also conducted class discussions on school problems brought before the board.

If you have a complaint to make about the school, why not drop it in the suggestion box? All suggestions are discussed by the Board of Control, and if they are considered worth while, action may be taken on them.

This year's president of the student body was Jim Baydo, who presided over all meetings of the board. He was assisted by Margaret Spear, vice president; Joan Erickson, secretary; and Ramona Watkin, Ken Brock, Pat Kibler, and Enid Watkin, the cheer leaders.

A decision was made this year allowing the pepsters to become regular student body officers. Other achievements were the issuing of dog tags and the appropriation for an i n s p i r a t i o n medal for basketball.

JUNIOR HIGH BOARD PRACTICES WAYS OF DEMOCRACY

Every other Thursday morning members of the Junior High Board of Control had to roll out of their beds extra early to be in time for the 8:15 meeting.

This board, like that in senior high, had one member from each home room. In this way, all students were represented in the student government of the school. The representatives were elected from their first period classes at the beginning of the year, and they were responsible for reporting the actions of the Board of Control to their groups.

Presiding over the junior high board was Tom Watkin, and other student body officers were: Chuck Littlefield, vice president; Pat Norris, secretary; and Kathleen Watkin, Betty Schakohl, and Rosemary Fly, cheer leaders.

SEASON TICKET COMMITTEE

Have you ever stopped to realize how much work goes into the process of maintaining the season tickets? It was taken care of this year by just two girls under the supervision of Margaret Hughes.

Every Thursday these girls issued stamps, pads, and charts to the home room representatives. After the money was collected and returned, it was their duty to count, record, and deposit it. At the end of the year they also made out the lists for the distribution of annuals.

MOTHERS' TEA CLIMAXES GIRLS' CLUB ACTIVITIES

"A Day With Yourself" was the theme used for this year's Girls' Club mixer, which was presented to all senior high girls on October 29 in the gymnasium. The mixer started off with a grand march followed by a style show. Refreshments were served afterwards.

Pajamas, school clothes, coats, bathing suits, and formals were among the many clothes modeled. A variety of entertainment was also provided by girls who served as models. The script for the style show was written by Jane Grunder, Janet Miller, Nadine Andresen, and Delores and Florence Wulfekuhle. Margaret Spear acted as narrator, while Janet Ward provided the musical background.

The Christmas atmosphere was spread by the cabinet when they decorated the halls at Christmas time with boughs of fir. Climaxing the year's activities was the mother-daughter tea, to which all the senior high girls and their mothers were invited. A picture from last year's tea is included on this page, since it was held late in the spring.

JUNIOR HIGH GIRLS BEGIN YEAR WITH MIXER

Starting the year off with a bang was the Junior High Girls' Club cabinet. First on their agenda was the mixer which they held for all girls in the seventh grade through the ninth. The ninth grade girls acted as big sisters to the seventh graders to help them get acquainted. About two hundred junior high girls attended.

Their second major project was decorating the junior high halls at Christmas. They placed swags in the halls and also decorated the bulletin board with holly and a Christmas greeting. During the year all junior high girls heard several interesting guest speakers.

The last outstanding social function for the Girls' Club for this year was a Valentine's Day tea which was held for all ninth grade girls and their mothers. That this affair will become an annual tradition for future years is the the hope of the present cabinet.

Presiding over the Girls' Club cabinet was Gerda Mayer. Serving under her leadership were: Sharon Kremer, vice president; Irma Doyle, secretary; and Joyce Shaffer, yell leader. Each home room selected a representative to serve on the cabinet. Mrs. Emeline Rentsch again served as adviser.

BUDDING JOURNALISTS ACQUIRE NOSE FOR NEWS

If you glanced in the door of room 310 during early morning journalism, you might have noticed someone dreaming of when he would become the editor of a metropolitan daily or even editor of a leading magazine.

Nevertheless, he would not be able to dream for long, for there was copy to be read, stories to be written, pages to be made up, headlines to be thought of, and ads to be secured.

Both first and second year journalism classes were taught by Dan Ranniger. Mr. Ranniger revealed methods of good journalism practices to his class and advised them on the material to be published in the Vanguard.

You also might have noticed a light burning in 310 until the wee hours of the morning during publication week. The editors and members of the editorial staff often had to devote many extra hours of their time putting the finishing touches on the paper before it came off the press.

This year the editorial staff was changed at the end of the first semester, allowing more journalism students an opportunity to receive as much experience as possible.

AS THEY WORK ON THE VIKING VANGUARD

Editor-in-chief for the second semester was Maralyn Mannie. Members of her staff were: Carolyn Todd, feature editor; Gene Hammermaster, boys' sports editor; Jane Grunder, business manager; Peggy Tompkins, ad manager; Kaylene Craig, girls' sports editor; Mary Bradley, exchange; and Beverly Ammerman, circulation.

Taking their place in the Quill and Scroll, national honorary journalism society, were ten Puyallup High students. To be a member, the student's work must be approved by the journalism adviser, as well as by the national secretary. For eligibility the student must have done excellent journalistic work either on the paper or yearbook. Jane Grunder and Nadine Andresen are the only two-year members. Other members include Darleen Chappell, Peggy Tompkins, Norene Gill, Janice Lindquist, Maralyn Mannie, Carolyn Todd, Bill Finch, and Gene Hammermaster.

Above: Goods, Bush, and Berteig spent much time taking and developing pictures for the annual and paper as well as for other school publicity.

YEARBOOK STAFF USES DOOR THEME

Nadine Andresen, editor, and Venetta Kunschak, business manager, led the staff. Palma Larson was the adviser, assisted by Harold Snodgrass, who supervised the athletic section.

Venetta was faced with the problem of setting up a new advertising system which consisted of breaking away from the traditional ads and providing listings of the advertisers in order to raise more money for the annual without increasing the cost to the merchants. Members of the ad staff were Shirley Curtis, Jeanette Kooser, Shari Hartman, Phyllis Ray, Bill Goods, Gaylene Younker, and Pat Kibler.

Nadine was assisted by Peggy Tompkins, clubs; Geneva Sherman, school life; Mythol Hildreth, dummy; Shari Hartman, dramatics; Beverly Allen, Mary Lou Letourneau, and Janet Andrus, senior section; Alice Weatherby and Linda Tredway, activities; Warren Wotton and Irving Berteig, boys' sports; Pat Kibler, faculty; Delaine Olson, classes and vocal music; Gerry Thompson, instrumental music; Mary Lou White, girls' sports; and Darleen Chappell, picture editor. Irving Berteig, Marvin Bush, and Bill Goods were the photographers.

VIKING KNIGHTS

Standing out from the other students every Friday were the boys and girls in blue sweaters with white letters. They were the Viking Ladies and Viking Knights.

To become a member of these groups is an honor every senior high student wishes to obtain. The membership is limited, as there are only fourteen Viking Ladies and twelve Viking Knights. Each class elects two knights and ladies each year in senior high, and the president of Girls' club and the sports manager for G. A. A. automatically become V. L.'s.

Perhaps most people associate these groups with the ushering they did at football and basketball games and at plays and other affairs held in the auditorium. They also kept the trophies polished and helped keep the halls clean.

The officers of the Viking Ladies this year were: president, Janet Miller; vice president, Margaret Spear; and secretary, Ramona Watkin. Barbara Radcliffe served as adviser for the group.

MUSEUM AND LIBRARIES PROVIDE MEANS OF LEARNING

When the reporter from the annual requested Mrs. Bessie Matthews for information about the museum, she wrote the following: "Though we sadly miss our patron, Doctor Karshner, time cannot dim the memory of him whose understanding, generosity and wise counsel were invaluable to us.

"Recently, Mrs. Karshner presented to the museum the photograph albums of their European and South Seas tours, together with five scrap books of newspaper clippings covering the events of the Doctor's public career."

Something new has been added to the social life of the senior high librarians. Each spring they are going to have a picnic for all old and new librarians. The other annual affair is the faculty book tea which is held each fall. These girls are advised by the faculty librarian, Florence Pfefferle, who was assisted in some of the more detailed work by Marlin Myhre and Helen Stout.

Putting on displays on the bulletin boards in the junior high study hall and decorating the library have been among the jobs of the junior high librarians. They have also made an author book and have had Christmas and spring parties. These girls are selected each year by the eighth grade teachers on the basis of courtesy and reliability, and they must have a C average. After their selection, they are given a training period under the direction of Jean Watson, the faculty member in charge of the junior high library.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE GROUPS HAVE INTERESTING YEAR

Attending the Junior Classical League Convention at the University of Washington in November were four Latineers. They were: Margaret Spear, president; Donna Decker, vice president; Ada Decker, secretary-treasurer; and Nancy Bell.

In November the annual initiation of new members was held. Having melted candle wax dropped on their hands, perfume poured on their heads, and walking through wet noodles were only a few of the tortures they went through.

A student-produced program was presented by the group at an assembly in March. Their last function of the year was their banquet, which is an annual affair. Students dined in Roman style, seeking to create the atmosphere of the days when Latin was widely spoken.

Members of the Spanish club will long remember the fun they had at the chili party held at the home of Delaine Olson on February 2. After doing justice to the refreshments, the members played many games.

The club was reorganized by students who were interested in having a Spanish club. The only requirement for joining is that the student is taking or has taken Spanish. During the past year they held their meetings every other Tuesday after school in room 200. One of the items of business included the ordering of pins.

Wielding the gavel was Richard Rhea, president; with Jeanne Miracle as vice president, and Delaine Olson as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Barbara Radcliffe acted as adviser.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA GAIN HONORS IN

Bringing home many honors and awards from various contests throughout the state was the Puyallup Chapter of the Future Farmers of America under the direction of Bert Badham and Ralph Mowrer.

At the Western Washington fair, Bob Zeller and Bob Annon took third in poultry judging, and the Horticultural booth received a Blue award. The group received a red banner for placing second in the state judging of live birds. The judging team was composed of Steve Smith, Bill Denton, and Lynn Andrews. Boys exhibiting poultry besides the judging team were Bob Annon, LeRoy DeBolt, Bob Zeller, Marvin Shoe, and George Batty.

The Parliamentary Procedure team won the Sub-district No. 1 contest. Officers of the team were Jim Calvert, president; Ray Barth, vice president; Jim Wilson, secretary; Steve Smith, treasurer; Bob Zeller, sentinel; and LeRoy DeBolt, reporter. This group also won the Sub-State contest held in Puyallup, March 7.

Don Schmitt, sophomore, was awarded a registered Holstein calf by the Supervised Practice committee in December. The Sears Foundation started this award two years ago. The bases on which the animal was awarded were the boy's interest in agricluture, active membership in F. F. A., facilities for housing and caring for a dairy animal, and general environment and barn conditions.

A committee of six ag boys to decide and judge the conditions of farms were Cal Capener, chairman; Bob Annon, secretary; and committee members Jim Baginski, Larry Pederson, Bob Gratzer, and Marvin Hartshorn. Ed Krummel served as chairman of the Christmas basket which they gave to a needy Puyallup family.

VARIED ACTIVITIES KEEP CLUB MEMBERS BUSY

"Hot dogs, hot dogs, get your hot dogs now!" That is probably what you would have heard if you had attended Friday night football games when the F. H. A. girls sold hot dogs to the hungry crowds. Also included in their activities was the sponsoring of the Junior Red Cross drive in the school and the entertaining of patients at Madigan hospital. Eleven girls attended the annual Southwest Regional convention at Chehalis in November.

This year's officers were: Rose Marie Greeley, president; Mary Lewtas, vice president; Marie Conway, secretary-treasurer; Helen Alexander, adviser.

Gale Munsey guided the Washington Retailers' club this year; Joe Tucci acted as vice president; Flossie Brothers took minutes at all the meetings; and the purse strings were controlled by Frank Braget. Hilda Skreen advised the group, which also had four standing committees: display coordinator, Lynn Williams; social, Joe Tucci; ways and means, Frank Braget; and speakers, Flossie Brothers.

Joe Tucci was chosen to represent the Puyallup group at a convention held in Olympia. The students also visited many places this past year and had a number of interesting speakers.

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN CONTROL OF "Y" AND REC

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character," is the motto of the "Y" clubs. In order to live up to this, numerous service projects were sponsored by the groups this past year. To make the clubs more effective, Tri Hi-Y and Hi-Y training groups were organized to train future members. All regular clubs will choose their members from these groups from now on.

The Hi-Y Council was led by Janet Miller, president; Beverly Ammerman and Jim Fly, co-vice presidents; and Carol Stone, secretary. Rec Board officers were: president, Carolyn Anderson; vice president, Roy Keehnel; and secretary, Shirley Dressel. Roy E. Richstad and Phyllis Blazer, local Y. M. C. A. secretaries, supervised all club activities.

TICKET SELLING GROUP

"Am I late! Just a minute, I've got my season ticket here somewhere. Oh, I guess I forgot it!"

If this happened to you, as it did to many others, you could always get an admission ticket from one of the girls who served on the ticket sellers committee. They are pictured at the right with their adviser, Robert Vollen.

Front: Gilmore, Malott, Hanson, Sherman. Back: Mr. Vollen.

BOYS OF VIKING PATROL

Captain Bill Yates and his Viking Patrol were on the job this year seeing to it that the students kept off the grass, that rowdiness in the halls was restricted, and that the bicycle rules were heeded.

Other officers of the group were Lieutenant, Walter Campbell; and secretary, Ronald Jonas; with Eldon Angelo as adviser. The members are selected by the old members of the club.

SMOKING COMMITTEE

That is what you will be told if any member of the smoking committee catches you violating the rules. The violator is also required to sign a pledge of obedience.

This year's officers were: president, LeRoy Sovey; vice president, Jerry Sullivan; secretary, Joe Tucci; treasurer, Ray Barth; and adviser, Bill Whitesel.

Front: Mr. Whitesel, Breitsprecher, Dahl, Barth. Back: L. Sovey, J. Salisbury, Tucci, Sullivan, Daugherty.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS

Volunteering their assistance to the high school secretaries were the office girls. They fulfilled duties such as answering phones, running the switchboards, and typing. The girls picked up the attendance slips from each room during first, fourth, and sixth periods, and the first period girls also distributed the daily bulletin.

COMMITTEES ASSIST IN PREPARING FOR STAGE PRODUCTIONS

Securing everything from oilsilk curtains to strawberries has kept the members of this year's property committee busy.

This committee, comprised of intermediate and advanced drama students, is responsible for all stage and hand props used in the stage productions. This work can help a drama student to earn credit toward a drama pin. Advisers were Jim Hatton and Leonard Docherty.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

Making the where, when, and who of a play known is the job of the publicity committee. They carry this out by making and distributing handbills, bumper strips, and posters; planning and financing programs; and advertising in the local and Tacoma papers. This group, headed by Phyllis Ray, general chairman, and various division chairmen, is advised by Elizabeth Buss and Robert Wolf.

Another necessary and hard-working group is the make-up club, which is responsible for the facial characterizations of the Puyallup Thespians. Each member is responsible for one actor and makes a study of the character before planning his make-up. Committee chairman is Bea Lindsey, and Gertrude Hansen serves as adviser.

USHERETTES

Leadership, scholarship, citizenship, and character . . . these are the qualifications of the usherettes. Selected by the Viking Ladies, these junior girls perform various duties at Puyallup's musical and dramatic productions, such as ushering the people to their seats and handing out programs.

The usherettes can be recognized by their garb of black skirts, black v-necked sweaters and white scarves which they wear each Friday. Mrs. Barbara Radcliffe is the adviser of this group.

STAGE CREW

Aside from their regular back-stage maneuvers, the members of stage crew can be seen tumbling, sign painting, and performing ju-jitsu. This group designs and constructs sets for all the stage productions.

The stage crew consists of the following crew chiefs: stage manager, electrician, sound effects man, painter, carpenter, and fly-chief. Under the leadership of Mark Hipkins, the boys have installed a new back-stage sound system and have finished up repairs following the fire.

PROJECTION CREW

Made up of thirteen boys, the projection crew has enjoyment as well as work. One compensation is that they get to see every movie that is shown at school. Aside from that they have to carry the projectors from the visual aids room to the various classes that require the movies. The crew members give up their study hall time to run the projectors and receive no credit except a letter at the end of the year. Under the direction of Gorge Walter, these boys have learned a great deal about the machines. Ramona Watkin served as secretary again this year.

"TEN LITTLE INDIANS" PROVIDES CHILLING SUSPENSE

"Ten little Indian boys going out to dine,
One choked his little self and then there were nine."

This is part of the rhyme which served as a clue to the gruesome mystery which was presented on March 1, 1952, in the school auditorium as the junior-sponsored play with an all-school cast.

Once again the full houses greeted the production of "Viking Varieties," when the annual show was staged in the auditorium March 27-29.

Features of the extravaganza this year were a Dude Ranch, Walt Disney Fantasy, Brigadoon, and Vaudeville, 1924. There were also special between-acts performances. Director of the entire production was Louis Owens with Mrs. Joan Kern as dance adviser.

About 104 students from the vocal music department wrote the script, planned the scenes, and also made up the majority of the cast. They were assisted by 38 students who formed such groups as the stage crew, make-up club, and publicity committee.

Selected from the second and fifth period chorus classes was the a capella Choir, which performed in assemblies, the Christmas concert, the spring concert, and on "Campus Radio Theater".

Probably the busiest groups in school this year were the Nonet and Septet. They sang at various club meetings around Puyallup and served as the nucleus for the choir, glee clubs, and "Viking Varieties". On March 1 at the solo and ensemble contest held at Renton both groups received a superior rating. In the solo division various members of these groups attained the following ratings: Excellent—Cal Capener, Bob Logan, Joanne Tucker, and Leila Dildine; Good—Jack Beck and Sue Neal.

This year the Girls' Glee Club sang in the Christmas and spring concerts and "Viking Varieties." They also participated in the vocal contest held at Auburn. The seventy members rehearsed on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school.

The activities of the Boys' Glee Club closely paralleled those of the girls this year. They rehearsed on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 8:00. Some of the songs they practiced were "Winter Song" and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen".

The instrumental music department of the Puyallup school system has grown by leaps and bounds in the past three years under the leadership of Ed Krenz and Breese Bell. From grade school on up can be found hopeful young musicians, working ardently to produce better music for Puyallup school students and residents to enjoy. Room 313 was an active place during the entire day, including many evenings even during the summer months.

Under the leadership of Pat Blanchfield and the instruction of Sharon Kremer, the junior high majorette troupe has flourished during the school year. The eight girls gave a well-received performance as the featured half-time performance during a home basketball game early in the season. They also marched behind the junior band in the Daffodil parade.

Under the direction of Ed Krenz, the senior orchestra had an active year. To begin the year's public performances, the group participated in a mid-winter concert in December, and then appeared in the Christmas program. The presenting of half the annual Swing concert, featuring Pat Schwartze and "Rhapsody in Blue," was next on the agenda. Contest time and the Spring concert kept the group busy in the spring, and they ended their appearances with the performance at Baccalaureate services.

In their first year of existence, the woodwind trio, under the leadership of Winston Vitous, was given an excellent rating at the ensemble contest held in March. The string quartet, under the direction of Breese Bell, received a rating of superior at the same contest.

ENSEMBLES APPEAR AT MANY PROGRAMS

Several instrumental groups from the bands proved to be popular additions to many programs around Puyallup during the past year.

The brass sextet, which was heard during the intermission at the district barber shop quartet contest, appeared at many local club functions. The group was rated excellent at the ensemble contest in March.

Another group was the junior clarinet quartet which received an excellent rating under the direction of Mr. Krenz. The music of the senior clarinet quartet also proved to be in demand during the year, and they too received an excellent rating.

BAND CLIMAXES YEAR AT DAFFODIL PARADE

The adding of atmosphere to the football and basketball games, including the state basketball tournament in Seattle, was accomplished by the senior band in the past year. A notable appearance of the group was at the Swing concert where Albert Ingalls, the guest artist from Seattle, directed the band in his own composition.

Stepping smartly to stirring march music and led by the drum major and three majorettes, the band added color to the Daffodil parade and later rated high in the band contest.

JUNIOR INSTRUMENTAL GROUPS PROVIDE TRAINING

"Working hard and waiting" is the motto for junior band and orchestra members. These groups, which are for all students, not just junior high, are mainly for the purpose of training, so that the members may later enter the senior band and orchestra.

As the largest junior band and orchestra so far in the school, their highlights of this year were the Spring concert and the junior contest, entered for the first time. The band also marched in the Daffodil parade.

Also coming up are the seventh grade band and orchestra, which help to give the training for the musicians that have earned for Puyallup high school its reputation in instrumental music.

JUNIOR HIGH MUSICIANS ARE PROMISING VOCALISTS

Future "Viking Varieties" stars and Nonet and Septet members are taught the fundamentals of music in the Junior High Girls' Glee Club and Chorus. In these groups they sang, learned music appreciation, and learned how to read music. In the chorus there were approximately eighty members and in the glee club, seventy members.

The junior high girls rehearsed on Monday and Wednesday mornings at 8:00. They sang "Angels O'er the Fields" with the Senior High Girls' Glee Club in the Christmas concert. Any junior high girl who liked to sing could be a member. The Junior High Chorus consisted of those enrolled in Mr. Owens' sixth period chorus class.

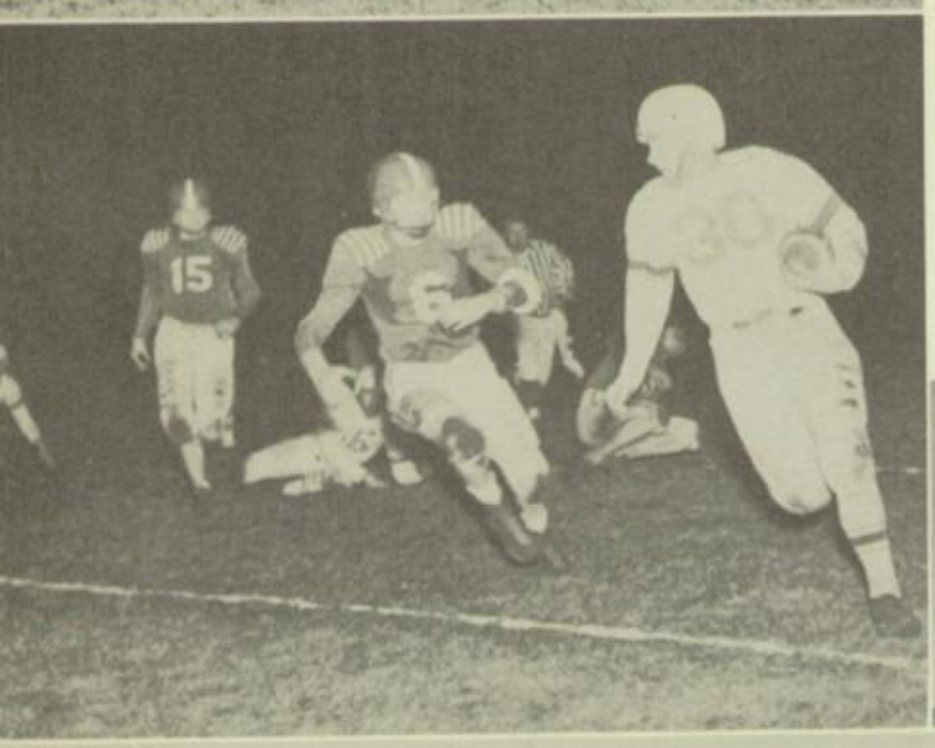
ATHLETICS PROVIDE THE KEY TO PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

VIKING FIELD

ONCE AGAIN, VIKINGS TAKE



For the third time in four years the Puyallup Vikings scored their way to the Puget Sound League Championship title.

Winning honors for Puyallup were Richard Hammermaster, Cliff Webster, Bob Iverson, Jack Burrell, and Marcus Christie, who were selected for the All-Conference first team. Galen Nusbaum was honorable mention.

The inspirational winner was Doug Sawyer and next year's captain will be Richard Hammermaster. Leading the Vikings through one of the best seasons on record were Carl Sparks and Dean Nicholson as coaches, and Jim Turman as trainer.

Although the non-league Bremerton game ended in Puyallup's defeat, 27-7, the Viks went on to take the championship. Rallying for their first Puget Sound League game, the Vikings easily took the Kent-Meridian Royals 27-0.

The Renton Indians were the next opponents and after a thrilling game the score was a 6-6 tie. This was the game that ended Captain Gerry Sullivan's high school football career with a broken ankle.

The Puyallup Vikings swept over the next four games with the Clover Park Warriors, the Highline Pirates, Lake Washington, and Auburn with scores of 44-0, 12-0, 21-0, and 34-0 respectively.

Freezing winds and a low temperature accompanied the competition during the White River, Puyallup game; but the Vikings won 20-13.

The traditional rivalry was at its highest when the Sumner Spartans and Puyallup's Vikings clashed on Viking Field, but for the first time in many a Turkey-day game, the Vikings were masters of the situation and completed a memorable season with a decisive victory over Sumner. The score, 34-7.

This season was an unusual one because of the points. Puyallup amassed 198 points while her opponents scored only 26 points in eight league games.

B SQUAD WORKS AND PLANS FOR FUTURE

Composed of 36 rough and ready sophomores and juniors, the B Squad football team piled up a satisfying season with two won, two tied, and four lost. Coached by Bill Whitesel, the team's performance was actually better than the records show, since two games were lost by only one touchdown. Victories were scored over Auburn, 7-0, and Stadium, 19-6; ties resulted in games with Lincoln, 6-6, and Stadium, 6-6; and losses were sustained in contests with Sumner, 14-0, Clover Park, 6-0 and 12-7, and White River, 26-0.

The B Squad games provide the experience and dexterity necessary for the outstanding A Squad teams Puyallup produces. Hand in hand with the success of Viking squads is the fact that any boy who wants to can play football, thus giving everyone a chance to show his ability to become a good player, and perhaps eventually to earn that big "P" in recognition of his effort.

JUNIOR GRIDMEN HIT THAT LINE HARD

Coming through in the usual Viking style, the Puyallup Junior High football squad passed and blocked their way into the second place in the Puget Sound Junior High League. Composed mainly of freshmen and eighth graders, with one seventh grader, the Baby Vikings were undoubtedly a triple threat team.

The Captain was Bob Kaelin and Rod Olson was voted Inspirational Award winner.

Losing only a heartbreaker to Clover Park, 28-19, the Baby Viks won three games and lost one. When the Vikings met Sumner at Spartan Field the results of a hard fought game were 7-0 in favor of the Vikings. White River also felt the Baby Viking wrath to the extent of a 7-0 defeat, and when the Viks trounced Auburn, the score was 21-0.

Coach Al Jacobs and assistant coach Jim Turman both agreed that the senior high football team was going to be receiving the potential manpower for a championship team from this year's junior high squad.

VIKINGS ARE CHAMPS, PLAY IN TOURNAMENT

They came; they saw; they conquered. This is the story of the 1952 Puyallup basketball team. For the first time since 1946 the Vikings bucketed their way into the first place in the Puget Sound League and into the Class A Tournament at the University of Washington in the Hec Edmunson Pavilion.

Making the All-Conference first team was Bob Iverson, Puyallup's center; Keith Peterson received second team All-Conference rating; and Royal Drath and Gerald Sullivan made the All-Conference honorable mention. This year's captain was Bob Iverson, and Harold Hatch was voted Inspirational Award Winner by his teammates.

Rated by sport writers to finish low in league standings, the Vikings came through a schedule that would be rated "tough" by anyone, with 15 wins and one loss. That loss was at the hands of the Renton Indians in a 35-33 game. Later in the season, in the most thrilling game of the season, the Vikings nosed the Indians out of the league shuffle and out of the State Tournament with a 37-32 victory. Dean Nicholson coached the Vikings in their victories.

BASKETBALL IS THE SPORT OF MANY STUDENTS

The pictures on this page indicate to some extent the opportunity for basketball that is provided in Puyallup. Playing the same schedule as the varsity, the B squad won nine, tied one, and lost six games, under the coaching of Bill Whitesel.

Members of the sophomore squad also had a schedule of games. Intramural and inter-class tournaments were played by other boys.

BABY VIKING HOOPSTERS PREPARE FOR FUTURE

"Wow! What a day!" Not only did the Puyallup senior high basketball team win the league championship, but in the same day the Baby Vikings copped the league championship. What coincidence; for, like the senior high, the last league championship for the Baby Viks was in 1946.

Coached by Jim Turman, the Baby Vikings were the scrappiest junior high team in a long time. Jerry Flansburg was the captain, and he was also high point man with 196 points. Nello Morganti was second in the scoring honors with 139 points in league play.

Altogether the Baby Vikings played nine league games and won eight of them. They won the South End championship from Sumner and the Puget Sound League championship from Kent-Meridian, the North End champs.

G.A.A. OFFERS GIRLS FULL SPORTS PROGRAM

G. A. A. sportsters play host to league amazons.

OFFICERS
J. Williams, B. Curtright, C. Anderson, A. Robbins.

The Girls' Athletic Association, under adviser Doris Sherrill, consisted of about 200 sophomore, junior and senior girls. Indoor sports including volleyball, basketball, ping pong, and tumbling, and outdoor sports of softball, tennis, bike riding and hikes were among the main activities of this group.

Points are earned for participation in the various sports. A total of 100 points is given for taking part in all major sports, and 50 points are given for bike rides, horseback riding, swimming, and skiing. Twenty-five points may be earned for medical or dental check-up.

The highest award presented is the Gold Victory, for which a girl must have 2500 points. The Silver Victory is the second highest award, requiring 2100 points. It is necessary to earn 550 points for a letter or chevron.

G. A. A. girls participated in several play days throughout the year. Among these were basketball, volleyball, and bowling playdays. Each school in the league sent its representatives, and the girls participated as color teams.

Officers of the club were: president, Joanne Williams; vice president, Ann Robbins; secretary-treasurer, Bette Curtwright; and sports manager, Carolyn Anderson.

PLAYING TENNIS IS THEIR RACQUET

At the time the annual went to press, the tennis team had played two matches and had won one and lost one. Since most of the members are sophomores and juniors, the experience they are receiving this year under Coach Bob Vollen should produce a strong team next year.

The boys' doubles participants are Pat Bogrand and Keith Peterson; Erle Tallman plays the boys' singles; and the mixed doubles contenders are various members of the team. Different girls participate in the girls' singles; and the girls' doubles players are Joan Erickson and Donna Shipley, the two graduating seniors.

DIAMOND MEN WORK AND PLAY HARD

"Batter up, and play ball!" As in every town in the country, Puyallup baseball fans heard these words this spring as the Puyallup Vikings launched into their 1952 baseball season. They started out by winning their first game, but at the time this book was printed they had lost four hard fought games. The baseball squad was composed of 12 seniors, 11 juniors, and 10 sophomores.

The sophomores and some of the juniors made up the B squad, which played a separate season. This group won three games and lost only one. Carl Wasmund coached both the varsity and B squad.

GOLF IS FORE-MOST ON THEIR MINDS

The golf team, composed of four seniors and one junior, won a game and lost one game at the time this book was printed. All the boys on the team are members of the Linden Golf Club and have been receiving professional coaching on the side, in addition to the help given by their coach, Harold Simonson.

Bob Stewart, a senior, is the number one man and the other regular members are Marvin Lince, Bob Tresch, and Doug Sawyer, seniors; and Guy Robertson, junior. John Robertson and Daryl Jackson are gaining valuable experience for next year.

In the South End qualifying meet Puyallup took second with 41 points, losing by only 3½ points to Clover Park's 44½. As a result of this meet, Puyallup was to be represented at the conference meet by eight trackmen. Those eight were Bob Corey, Gene Hammermaster, Dick Sanders, Keith Palmquist, Royal Drath, Harry Allen, Bob Iverson, and Galen Nusbaum. Junior Cabanas was last year's Inspiration award winner.

JUNIOR HIGH BOYS COMPETE IN TRACK

Taking a close second place in the South End qualifying meet, the Baby Viking track team was preparing to close a satisfying season at the time this book was printed.

In their first meet, with Clover Park, the Baby Vikings scored 38 2/3 points to Clover Park's 30 1/3. In the Highline meet Puyallup had 50 5/6 points to the Pirate's 18 1/6. The Viks came in second in the Puyallup-Renton-Lake Washington conference, and later the Vikings took Auburn, 52 to 18. Puyallup again took second in a conference; this time in the Puyallup-Sumner-White River meet. Mr. Jacobs was the Baby Viking coach.

Among the most active groups around school this past year were the pepsters, yell leaders, and drill team, who added much to the spirit of all athletic contests and pep assemblies.

Last fall the yell leaders attended a conference for Puget Sound conference yell leaders held at Lake Washington high school. The drill team acquired new outfits this year and performed at several football and baskteball games, as well as at the state basketball tournament and Daffodil parade.

Front: Cathy Casteel, Bob Yates, Delaine Olson. Back: Paul Hawkins, John Gorow, Dick Hammermaster.

An unusual opportunity was afforded Maralyn Mannie this year, since the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Puyallup sponsored a trip to the United Nations in New York. This trip for a junior student is part of the program called "U. N. Pilgrimage for Youth," and it includes a six-day stay in New York.

Six junior girls and boys were selected to participate in Girls' and Boys' State this year. Practice in student government is given in these events which will be held in Ellensburg.

Students and their sponsoring groups are: Delaine Olson, Business and Professional Women's Club; Cathy Casteel, Bruce A. Mercer Auxiliary; John Gorow, American Legion; Paul Hawkins, Veterans of Foreign Wars; and Richard Hammarmaster and Bob Yates, Kiwanis.

The honor society voted to be an inactive club this year, due to the prominence of the members in other activities. Nevertheless, the group sponsored an all-student talent assembly during the first semester.

Membership in honor society is limited to only those students with a "B" or above grade average. The potential member must also submit a list of two or more activities to be eligible for membership.

Officers for this year were: President, Bob Yates; vice president, Bob Huber; secretary, Bea Lindsey; and treasurer, Mary Lewtas. Helen Alexander served as adviser for the group.

Never get too old to be nice.

AS THE DOORS CLOSE

The doors of another successful school year are swiftly swinging shut, locking in memories that can never be forgotten. Through these doors have passed champions of sports, dramatics, speech, art, music, and citizenship; as well as outstanding faculty members and scholars.

Now that the doors are just about shut, we of the VIKING staff wish to thank the faculty and students of Puyallup high school for the cooperation and encouragement they demonstrated throughout the year. Our special thanks we offer to Palma Larson, who diligently advised us in the process of developing your VIKING. Sincere acknowledgement is extended to Foshaug's, Krug, Hartman-Ames, William Lee, and Harris Moore photo studios for their work on the senior panels; to The Puyallup Valley Tribune for the printing and binding of the annual; to the S. K. Smith Company for producing the covers; and to Harold Snodgrass who assisted with the athletic section.

When you receive your copy of the 1952 VIKING, the doors will soon be closed on the excitement and activities of a truly championship year. It is the sincere wish of the annual staff that this book will serve as a key to unlock the memories of an eventful year.
